Then comes little Italy, where there is has been very sucmore poverty to the acre than in any country in Europe (not excepting landlord ridden | highly esteemed by Ireland), where the farm laborer is said "to his conferes. contend with every species of privation from the cradle to the grave"—to join the alliance of her more powerful neighbors. Every Italian is liable to military duty from 20 to 39. They cast lots for the privilege of serving King Humbert in Italy and then go to drilling. After completing their time in active duty they go through a progressive state toward age and peace, in some such fashion as the Germans. There is the ferritorial militia and the mobile militia, the first consisting of some $70,000 men, the second numbering some $30,000, exclusive of officers world, and if some Italian citizen, reduced by adversity to keeping a peanut stand in the domain of the United States, should be considered to be wronged, the Italian government could level New York with her iron-lade before the results of the re Then Italy has one of the best navys in the clads before the president would have time Josie, some time ago took shelter under Mrs.

to apologiza. To Americans who are used to the diminutive figures of the United States army-some 30,000 officers and men-these armies would seem quite sufficient to take care of any power whose citizens are not born at 'preent arms.' But Austria, the remai power in the alliance, not only bristles with bayonets, but is adding to her force. The infantry of the Austro-Hungarian army comprises 102 regiments of the line, one regi-ment of Tyrolese sharpshooters and forty ment of Tyrolese sharpshooters and forty battalions of rifles. This looks quite formidable, even considering a regiment, as with as, only about 1,000 men; but when we consider that the Austrian infantry regiment consists of 4,915 men and officers, and that consists of 4,915 men and officers, and that the single regiment of Tyrolese sharpshooters numbers 12,327 men, with 230 horses and to carriages, a citizen of the United States is liable to prick up his ears. The modest designation of "regiment" in the case of these Tyrolenas, whom we have been accustomed to consider in this country only as warblers, leads one to suspect that if the system is followed out there must be more soldiers in Austria than there is population. But we see how a few are spared from the service when we notice the figures of the forty rifle battalions, which consist of only 1,220 men each. We are led back, however, to the former opinion by the news that Austro-Hungary has lately added nine divisions to her effectual force, or nearly as many men as she had before.

is Dangerous if not Ridiculous. Austrian army is being drilled in its use. The rifles, after being properly tested, are delivered to the men, who represent the enemy they are to slaughter by figures drawn on targets. These are placed in the edvance, and as the men move forward they fire into these figures, admirably adapted to practice, since they can't fire back. Then a supposition and as the men move forward they fire into these figures, admirably adapted to practice, since they can't fire back. Then a supposition and the set figures, admirably adapted to practice, since they can't fire back. Then a supposition of the patented or proprietary articles of food, that their products possess a superior wholesomeness because they contain a drug of some particular medicinal property. Phosphates, alum, lime, arsenic, calomei, etc., have their places as specifies for fifterent diseases, and are invaluable medical remedies, each in its place. But they are not care-alls. The physician who should prescribe either calomei, or and these "flerce huzzars" are riddled by the Austrians. Then the men are allowed to break ranks and run up to the screen to see That is a rather dangerous proposition, break ranks and run up to the screen to see how many have been killed.

It is a pity that international questions couldn't be settled in this way:

The settled in this way:

Not long ago Italy was added to the Austro Jerman alliance, and now there through perhaps they may get a crack at the bear, and are cleaning their rifles for that purpose.

Bismarck the other day talked to the German reichstag about how to maintain peace by putting every one not a cripple in the ranks of the German army, and regarding the rest of the German army, and regarding the rest of the German people as a vast reservoir from which to draw military supplies. Youth has usually been looked upon as a blessing, but in Germany youth simply means

The new bishop of Alton, the Rev. James old, and since then he has devoted himself to the Catholic church. His work has been very such has been very such as the research of the body with a medicine, but simply to vestulate or make light the mixture of flour, so as to render it when baked easy of mastication and perfectly digestible. The most celebrated experts in the business have worked for the perfection of an article that should do this mechanically, adding to or taking from the flour nothing, nor in any way effecting a change in its properties of constituents. When this has been done the perfect leavening agent has been discovered. The manufacturers of the Royal Baking Powder have succeeded in this so far as to make a leavening agent that vesiculates and raises the loaf most perfectly and without changing the properties of the flour, while the restituum from it has been reduced to a minimum. The acid employed, however, to produce this result is not phosphatic, but the accordingly refined cream of tartar, which About ten years ago be changed the field this labors and went to Pecria, life the health authorities agree renders that powder perfectly pure and more reliable and benithin that any other.
